

GOOD LUCK

Aaron

#LuckyCharmUoM
from The University of Manchester

#ManekiNeko

The maneki-neko, literally 'beckoning cat', is a Japanese lucky charm bringing luck and good fortune to its owner. They're often given as gifts, so here's one just for you!

Wishing you the best of luck for your exams!

We hope to see you in September.
From everyone at The University of Manchester

Which #LuckyCharmUoM did you get?
Share yours now!

-  @AdmissionsUoM
-  AdmissionsUoM
-  OfficialUoM

Delivered by

GOOD LUCK

Hasan

#LuckyCharmUoM
from The University of Manchester

#FourLeafClover

In Irish tradition, if you find a four-leaf clover, you're destined for good luck. They're so rare, the odds of spotting one are 10,000-1. If you don't fancy your chances, here's one from us!

Wishing you the best of luck for your exams!

We hope to see you in September.
From everyone at The University of Manchester

Which #LuckyCharmUoM did you get?
Share yours now!

-  @AdmissionsUoM
-  AdmissionsUoM
-  OfficialUoM

Delivered by

GOOD LUCK

Abigail

#LuckyCharmUoM
from The University of Manchester

The University of Manchester

The German saying, 'schwein gehabt', literally 'got pig', means to have a stroke of luck – here's a German Glücksschwein or lucky pig, to bring you luck and good fortune!

Wishing you the best of luck for your exams!

We hope to see you in September.
From everyone at The University of Manchester

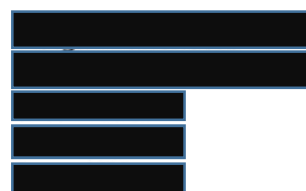

Which #LuckyCharmUoM did you get?
Share yours now!

 @AdmissionsUoM

 AdmissionsUoM

 OfficialUoM

Delivered by

Created by the Division of Communications and Marketing
M1557 04.16 Royal Charter Number RC000797